
WOMEN IN AMERICAN HISTORY

HIS 137Women in American History*3.0 UNITS

This course is designed as a survey course that examines the experiences of women in the United States. This course will focus on the history of women from pre-European contact to the present. Students will come to understand the role of women and their contributions by examining their written records from the past to the present.